-- The MAILING DATE of this communication appears on the cover sheet with the correspondence address --

Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If the period for reply specified above is less than thirty (30) days, a reply within the statutory minimum of thirty (30) days will be considered timely.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

Status

DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 1-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Johansson et al. (U.S. 5,983,100).

As to claims 1, 11 and 12, Johansson et al. shows a wireless headset-based communication arrangement, comprising: a first subscriber unit 250-2; a wireless headset 220 associated with said first subscriber unit to form a wireless communication apparatus; a detector within the wireless communication apparatus to detect a spatial proximity of at least one second subscriber unit or second wireless headset; and in response to said detection, said wireless headset associated with said first subscriber unit is adapted to communicate directly with said at least one second subscriber unit 240. See FIGS. 3 and 10, col. 6, line 60 – col. 7, line 10 and col. 11, lines 40-49.

As to claim 2, the Johansson et al. reference discloses the wireless headset-based communication arrangement according to Claim 1, wherein said direct communication is a short-range wireless communication. See col. 6, lines 35-39.

As to claim 3, the Johansson et al. reference discloses the wireless headset-based communication arrangement according to Claim 1, wherein said at least one second subscriber unit or second wireless headset is a plurality of subscriber units or wireless headsets such that group communications are implemented between said wireless headset associated with said first subscriber unit and the plurality of subscriber units or wireless headsets. See FIG. 12 and col. 7, lines 11-21.

As to claim 4, the Johansson et al. reference discloses the wireless headset-based communication arrangement according to Claim 3, wherein said wireless headset associated with said first subscriber unit provides broadcast communication to any of the plurality of subscriber units or wireless headsets within range of said wireless headset associated with said first subscriber unit.

As to claim 5, the Johansson et al. reference discloses the wireless headset-based communication arrangement according to Claim 1, wherein an identification is associated with the at least one second subscriber unit and the first subscriber unit uses the identification to communicate with the at least one second subscriber unit or its associated headset. See col. 8, lines 47-56.

As to claim 6, the Johansson et al. reference discloses the wireless headset-based communication arrangement according to Claim 1, wherein said detector is inherently contained within said first subscriber unit or said wireless headset, since the unit or headset makes the determination of whether communications are within a certain range.

As to claim 7, the Johansson et al. reference discloses the wireless headset-based communication arrangement according to Claim 1, wherein said detector detects a presence of a proximal at least one second subscriber unit or associated wireless headset when within the order of ten meters of said detector. See col. 6, lines 30-39. A home or office environment is within the range of ten meters.

As to claim 8, the Johansson et al. reference discloses the wireless headset-based communication arrangement according to Claim 1, wherein said first subscriber unit is one of: a cellular telephone, a mobile or portable radio, a personal digital assistant, a computer. The local interface module is a computer.

As to claim 9, the Johansson et al. reference discloses a wireless headset 220 adapted to operate in the wireless headset-based communication arrangement of Claim 1.

As to claim 10, the Johansson et al. reference discloses a communication device 240 adapted to operate in the wireless headset-based communication arrangement of Claim 1.

Response to Arguments

1. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-12 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

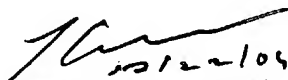

Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Sam Bhattacharya whose telephone number is (703) 605-1171. The examiner can normally be reached on weekdays 8:30 a.m. to 6:00 p.m., first Fridays off.
